

Also, we would wish to formally request an interview with the Minister at the earliest possible convenience.

Cheers.
Trevor.

Hi Trevor, the Minister is going to issue the following statement but won't be giving any interviews at this stage.

Minister with responsibility for Health, Social Services and Public Safety, Angela Smith said: The Insight programme raised serious issues, which concern me. We are giving careful consideration to them, in deciding the most appropriate action to take."

Clare,

We're simply attempting to put something together at this stage examining the programme.

We are proposing a one-to-one interview with Fearghal in studio, with no other contributors around at that time.

We may, depending on your response, seek opinion from DUP and Sinn Fein who, as you know, have called for a public inquiry.

Talk to you soon.

Trevor.

PS – You can always reach me on [REDACTED] if you've any further queries.

MINISTER ANNOUNCES CHILD DEATHS INQUIRY

Minister with responsibility for Health, Social Services and Public Safety, Angela Smith, today announced that she has appointed Mr John O'Hara QC to conduct an inquiry into the issues raised by the recent UTV Insight programme 'When Hospitals Kill'.

The Minister said: "I regard it as very important that the general public should have confidence in the health service and in the standards of performance of all who work in it. This television programme has raised a number of serious issues and allegations which need to be investigated.

"The death of a child is tragic and is something which my Department takes very seriously. I have spoken to the families who were involved in the programme and have told them that there will be a fully independent investigation.

"I am grateful to John O'Hara for agreeing to undertake this inquiry and I know that he will pursue a rigorous investigation of the issues.

NOTES TO EDITORS:
