Hyponatraemia

- In November 2004 the then Minister announced an independent inquiry into the events surrounding and following the deaths of three children: Adam Strain (aged 4); Lucy Crawford (aged 17 months); and Raychel Ferguson (aged 9).
- The cause of death in each case included hyponatraemia (a low sodium level in the blood). They subsequently became the subject of much media speculation and allegations against the relevant hospital trusts and others. Sperrin Lakeland Trust has been implicated in relation to the death of Lucy Crawford.
